PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 235, the “Veteran Emergency Medical Technician Support Act of 2013,” was introduced on January 14, 2013, by Rep. Adam Kinzinger (R-IL) and referred to the Committee on Energy and Commerce.

The legislation would amend the Public Health Service Act (PHSA) to provide demonstration grants to states with emergency medical technician (EMT) shortages to streamline state requirements for returning veterans with military EMT training to enter the EMT workforce without unnecessary duplication of their training.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR THE LEGISLATION

Members of the U.S. military who trained as combat medics face State licensing challenges when they try to find similar work after discharge. Many States do not recognize their qualifications as applicable to the licensing requirements of the civilian health care system for emergency medical services, such as EMTs or paramedics. State licensing laws vary, and while some States make exceptions for former military medics to allow for reciprocity and a chance to sit for the licensing exam without repeating their training, many States do not. With many EMT shortage areas, and a 10% unemployment rate among post 9/11 veterans,¹ the legislation addresses two important policy goals and will help veterans transition into the civilian workforce as quickly as possible.

H.R. 235, the “Veteran Emergency Medical Technician Support Act of 2013,” would provide demonstration grants to States with emergency medical technician (EMT) shortages to help streamline State requirements for returning veterans to enter the EMT workforce without unnecessary duplication of their training. States could determine the extent to which the State requirements for education and training of EMTs are equivalent to that of the military and identify methods, such as waivers, for qualified military EMTs to forego duplicative requirements. The bill would provide for an annual report to Congress on the demonstration grants.

H.R. 235 would make available a total of $1,000,000 over a five-year period (FY 2014–FY 2018) for the program. Funding would be offset by authorizing it within total amounts authorized for the Area Health Education Centers (Section 751 of the PHSA). Any cost associated with enacting the provisions of this Act should be paid for out of existing funds.

This bill is essentially the same as H.R. 4124, the “Veteran Emergency Medical Technician Support Act of 2012” that was passed by the House in September 2012 and sent to the Senate. No further action was taken on H.R. 4124 in the 112th Congress.

HEARINGS

The Committee on Energy and Commerce has not held hearings on H.R. 235 during the 113th Congress. However, the Subcommittee on Health held a hearing on H.R. 4124 during the 112th Congress.

H.R. 235—Veteran Emergency Medical Technician Support Act of 2013

Summary: H.R. 235 would authorize grants to states for streamlining state certification and licensing requirements for veterans to become licensed or certified emergency medical technicians (EMT).

The bill would authorize the appropriation of $1 million and CBO estimates that implementing the bill would cost $1 million over the 2014–2018 period, assuming the appropriation of the authorized amount. Pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply to this legislation because it would not affect direct spending or revenues.

The bill contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA).

Estimated Cost to the Federal Government: The estimated budgetary impact of H.R. 235 is shown in the following table. The costs of this legislation fall within budget function 550 (health).

	By fiscal year, in millions of dollars—
	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2013–2018
CHANGES IN SPENDING SUBJECT TO APPROPRIATION
Estimated Authorization Level	0	1	0	0	0	0	1
Estimated Outlays	0	*	*	*	*	0	1

Note: * = less than $500,000.

Basis of estimate: The bill would direct the Secretary of Health and Human Services to award demonstration grants to states to streamline state licensing and certification standards to assist veterans to meet state requirements applicable to becoming a certified or licensed EMT in the state if they have completed military EMT training while serving in the Armed Forces. The bill would authorize the appropriation of $1 million for the period of 2014 through 2018 and direct that the authorized amount come from funds appropriated in fiscal year 2014 to provide grants to area health education centers.

For this estimate, CBO assumes that H.R. 225 will be enacted near the end of fiscal year 2013 and that the full amount authorized will be appropriated. Based on historical patterns of spending for the similar demonstration programs, CBO estimates that implementing the bill would cost less than $1 million in 2014 and a total of $1 million over the 2014–2018 period, assuming appropriation of the specified amounts.

Intergovernmental and private-sector impact: H.R. 235 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA. Funds authorized in the bill would benefit states that restructure state procedures to certify or license eligible veterans as emergency medical technicians.

Estimate prepared by: Federal costs: Lisa Ramirez-Branum, Impact on state, local, and tribal governments: Lisa Ramirez-Branum, Impact on the private sector: Michael Levine.

Estimate approved by: Holly Harvey, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.
